

Donor banks ^{Courier} on OK college ^{Jan 27} ^{A4}

The Royal Bank of Canada has made a $135,000 donation to the Okanagan College's Centre of Excellence in Penticton.

RBC's donation is the biggest yet to Okanagan College Foundation's $5-million capital fundraising campaign to finance the development of the $28-million centre.

"We have been extremely fortunate to partner with a number of organizations that have taken the time to grasp just how important and groundbreaking this building will be for the Okanagan," said John Walker, CEO and president of Fortis B.C. and chairman of the foundation's capital campaign.

The Centre of Excellence in Sustainable Building Technologies and Renewable Energy Conservation is funded by the federal and provincial governments.