

SCOTT TRUDEAU/Penticton Herald

Students make a statement

Members of the Okanagan College Students' Union in Penticton continue to put the heat on the provincial government to reduce post-secondary debt. Their latest campaign, called Drop Fees, was staged on Thursday when a group displayed this banner along the train bridge that runs over the Channel Parkway. Calls were also placed to Penticton MLA Bill Barisoff and Minister of Advanced Education Moira Stilwell to ask for reduced tuition fees, stronger regulations on ancillary fees and fewer restrictions on the import of textbooks.
