OC fields its first ever baseball team

Kelowna's newest baseball team hits the field at Elks Stadium tonight. The Okanagan College baseball team will take on Thompson Rivers University in an exhibition game beginning at 7 p.m.

'OC's baseball program is in its first year and in its first ever game last week, dropped a 6-4 decision to Thompson Rivers.

The team—which has yet to decide on an official nickname—consists of 14 players. The fall season is an exhibition season with OC playing seven contests in the Canadian College Baseball Conference (CCBC).

“The OC baseball program represents a major step forward in providing a quality baseball program combined with a quality education, at a substantial financial savings versus the U.S. junior or four year college route, for both Okanagan players and players from throughout Canada,” said team president Bill Bayne.

OC, coached by Geoff White, Scott Wallis, Jared Johnson and Pedro Ibanez plays at home Wednesday.
