

Kyle and Janelle Taylor

have started their own construction company, KWT Construction. Kyle has been working in the construction industry and is presently taking his third year apprenticeship in carpentry at Okanagan College. KWT specializes in both interior and exterior construction, renovations, additions, decks and even sheds. They mainly handle jobs for one or two people at the present time. The company is a partner proprietorship with Janelle doing the books and advertising and keeping her present day-time employment at the regional district as a planning clerk. She also received her Applied Business Technology Certificate through Okanagan College. Sounds like this young couple really has it together. Call 717-3714.
