ASTTBC recognizes two Okanagan College employees

The Applied Science Technologists and Technicians of BC (ASTTBC) has recognized two Okanagan College employees for their work in promoting and enhancing careers in applied science.

Public affairs director Allan Coyle was recognized with a certificate of appreciation for his contribution in promoting both careers and educational opportunities for technicians and technologists through his work at the college.

"Allan's been a steadfast supporter and partner with ASTTBC, particularly as it relates to the STEM [science, technology, engineering and math] program we've worked on over the years," said ASTTBC executive director John Leech. "His devotion is emblematic of our great working relationship with Okanagan College generally."

Also receiving recognition was instructor Barry Brooks for his work developing the school's property inspection program. In addition to a certificate of service, Brooks has also been elected as a director with the ASTTBC board.
